STEWARDSHIP REPORT 2021

Connecting People With Causes That Matter

FROM THE BOARD CHAIR AND EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Some of the most brilliant ideas start with the words: “what if...?” Every day we can look down at our mobile phone and see the amazing result of Dr. Martin Cooper posing a what-if question in 1973 while he was working for Motorola.

In 1994, four local people who cared a great deal about our north county region asked four “what if” questions:

- What if there was a community foundation just for those living in the northernmost region of San Diego County that supported various nonprofit organizations?
- What if was a constantly growing, thriving foundation fueling special initiatives, urgent needs, scholarships, and supporting causes to help make a lasting difference?
- What if those who loved their local community could invest in a community foundation to “pay it forward” to help others thrive long after they were gone?
- And what if there was a foundation that could function in a stewardship capacity, mentoring nonprofit and community leaders, and managing endowments to support other charities?

These questions were posed by Helen Monroe, Jon Frandell, Fred Vaught, and Michael Dunlap. At the time, their ideas were ambitious. Each wanted to find a way where all facets of life for those living in neighboring areas could be improved by safety nets of care for generations to come. Bold thinking for sure. But they were energized by Ms. Monroe, a pioneer in community foundation development. Still professionally active, Ms. Monroe now has more than five decades of leading such noble thinking as well as teaching, mentoring, and overseeing two statewide endeavors in Michigan and Indiana to establish a multitude of community foundations.

Rounding out the brain trust of this band of forward-thinkers was Jon Frandell, a longtime investment advisor, previously with Merrill Lynch and now with Wells Fargo Advisors, Fred Vaught, an asset manager, and Michael Dunlap, a highly regarded CPA in Escondido recently re-elected as a Board

Director. Each of them brought their A-game in terms of experience, expertise, and enthusiasm to the endeavor.

Legacy Endowment Community Foundation – formerly The Community Foundation of North San Diego County – formed its first Board of Directors in 1994. Today, Legacy has grown its endowment and management base to more than $16.5 million* and in the past 26 years, has awarded more than $9.4 million in grants and scholarships.

As the 2020 pandemic continued into 2021, we found new and renewed ways to make connections solid, sustainable, and robust. New board members were recruited to deepen relationships through-out the area and beyond. CONNECT, our monthly news brief was introduced to deliver relevant news, and our social media channels were revitalized. All of these communication outlets and information resources are being built and re-built around YOU, with the needs of our community and growing region in mind.

It is our sincere hope this report provides greater insight into Legacy’s work in supporting a multitude of charitable partners who fill the humanitarian needs of our area. We truly appreciate our donors, volunteers, community leaders, and friends who promote Legacy.

Last but not least, we celebrate the vision and tenacity of our founders who launched a bold vision that a quarter-century later, continues to support all the vibrant, historic, community-centered, and cultural aspects of this beautiful north county region.

We wish to thank: Yadira Duran, Karen Estes, Peter Fellios, Laura Holck, Carter Moe, and Ken Munson for the gift of their time in reviewing, assessing, and recommending this year's grant recipients.

PHILANTHROPY SPOTLIGHTS

Grantee Highlight: Camp Wamp

Camp Wamp serves between 100 to 120 children with physical disabilities each year, providing them with a complete life changing experience. The 5 one-week sessions every July and August enable these children unique opportunities to sleep under the stars, fish, swim, hike, learn arts and crafts, and immerse their minds and bodies into the full scope of camping with adaptations to meet the abilities of each of their campers. Each camper is paired with their own counselor who helps them with participation adjustments, feeding, medication or other personal needs.

Children with varying disabilities such as Cerebral Palsy, Muscular Dystrophy, Paralysis, and amputations are surrounded by their peers with similar life challenges. Daily activities include a curriculum covering Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Mathematics. But perhaps the most empowering activity is the rock-climbing wall. Through a collaboration with Mark Wellman, a mountaineer since age 12 who survived a paralyzing accident in 1982, disabled children can experience the thrill of "reaching the top" of a 30-foot wall. It's a feat of accomplishment that builds confidence, optimism, self-reliance, and ambition.

Founded by Stephen Wampler, one of the first two things you'll notice about Stephen is his most engaging smile, and that he is in a wheelchair. In his own words being born with Cerebral Palsy is, "Irrelevant!" Over the years he has learned to survive and thrive. He wants to ensure that others with physical disabilities have the same opportunity as he has had so they can live a fulfilling life, striving to accomplish all they can, empowered by determination, spirit and purpose.

Donor Highlight: Roy Ansell

Iconic. It is a word often associated with someone who has become the very symbol of achieving an enduring stature in life accomplishments. Here at Legacy Endowment Community Foundation, we think it is a word that best describes Roy Ansell.

The bedrock of such enduring stature starts with Roy's life, shaped by the 36 years working for Alcoa with decades of international travel providing a macro-lens for viewing a larger world. It also came from decades of Rotarian service modeling "service above self" and the 4-Way Test. And, as important, it certainly came from 63 years of marriage to Joyce and bringing up their children, Lindsay, Adrian, and Michelle. Longevity meant everything to Roy.

Roy's leadership remains an integral part of Legacy Endowment, forged by his fierce commitment to "donor intent" during the Foundation's formative stage. He believed donors needed a place to position their financial legacy in a way that their wishes would always be carried out in perpetuity. As the founding board of directors created its organizational structure, there would always be a pause from Roy to look at everything from the donor's perspective. His resolve of protection for future clients still resonates today, and because of this donor-centric mantra, philanthropic integrity and longevity clearly endures.

Our community lost Roy Ansell in 2014, but his legacy carries on through The Roy and Joyce Ansell Family Fund, which provides a blanket of support for the community he loved with access to – in perpetuity – grants that support programs/services for veterans and his beloved sport, Rugby.

Scholarship Highlight: The Duke Snider Fund

In any particular minute of any particular day, thousands of references can be found on the internet about Baseball Hall of Fame player, Edwin Donald "Duke" Snider. Statistics may record his love of the game carved out over many decades, documenting a stellar career primarily playing as a center fielder for the Brooklyn/Los Angeles Dodgers. After finishing his last season in 1964, he easily transitioned to new roles as a baseball scout and manager until finding his calling as a local sports analyst and commentator. In the last season of his life, Duke had plenty to do on his Fallbrook Avocado farm, and plenty of thoughts on how to give back to the community that welcomed him, his wife Beverly and their four children to the San Diego North County.

Some will remember his Duke Snider Lanes in Fallbrook for the happy times with Duke hosting graduation and birthday bowling parties. Others will remember his personal time and financial support to various baseball teams and athletics in general. Many will recall his participation and help in championships, tournaments, fundraisers, planning committees, 1:1 coaching sessions and all the many ways he just made people feel special.

For such a person who had giving back and supporting others always on his mind, Legacy Endowment will now carry forward a torch in his name, forming the new Duke Snider Scholarship Fund. Beginning in fall 2022, high school graduates from Fallbrook, Bonsall, or Mission Vista High School may apply for an extra measure of support needed for college. We are exceptionally grateful to his family for choosing us to organize this fund as a tribute to Duke, helping others follow in his footsteps, cleats and all.
